Share out share in with SystmOne

We are requesting your consent to allow healthcare professionals at Robin Lane Health and Wellbeing Centre and other healthcare professionals who are treating you to share and have access to your medical records, and to help ensure you receive safe effective and efficient care.

Your medical records are an important part in helping ensure you receive safe, effective and efficient care. With our computer system (SystmOne) it is possible for other healthcare professionals treating you who are using the same system (for example the emergency Doctor that might see you out of hours) to see the medical records made by us and for us to see the medical records they make. We think this is valuable and will help to ensure the continuity of your care, but we need your consent to do this

Your consent is necessary for two reasons: to share out and to share in.

Sharing out would mean that we would make your medical records from Robin Lane Health and Wellbeing Centre available for other healthcare professionals to see. However, they would need to ask your consent to see them when they are treating you. Hence this does not mean that any healthcare professional could see your records, but only those who are treating you and only then with your consent.

Sharing in would allow us to see the medical records made by other health care professional you have seen, as long as you have consented for them to make their records available. Healthcare professionals will only look at information that is relevant to the treatment they are giving. In addition, you can withdraw your consent to share out or share in at any time in the future.

We believe giving your consent to share out and to share in, will help us facilitate your safe effective and efficient medical care. If you are happy with this please ask at reception for the appropriate form to complete.

This is not the same as the Summary Care Record or Care Data. You can see more information about these via the tabs on the right on this website.
